POLICY ON WHISTLEBLOWING

The 2012 Code of Corporate Governance (Guideline 12.7) provides:

“The ARMC should review the policy and arrangements by which staff of the company and any other persons may, in confidence, raise concerns about possible improprieties in matters of financial reporting or other matters. The ARMC’s objective should be to ensure that arrangements are in place for such concerns to be raised and independently investigated, and for appropriate follow up action to be taken. The existence of a whistle-blowing policy should be disclosed in the Company’s annual report, and procedures for raising such concerns should be publicly disclosed as appropriate.”

This Whistleblowing Policy (the “Policy”) is intended to provide a framework to promote responsible and secure whistleblowing without fear of adverse consequences. The Policy allows for reporting by employees or outside parties, such as suppliers, contractors and other stakeholders of such matters to the Audit Risk Management Committee of the Group, without fear of retaliation, to make known or raise concerns about actual or possible improprieties, and also permits the Group to address such reports by taking appropriate action, including, but not limited to, disciplining or terminating the employment and/or services of those responsible.

Scope:

The main scope of whistleblowing policy covers:

Financial issues

1. Fraudulent financial reporting
2. Misstatements arising from misappropriation of assets
3. Improper or unauthorized expenditures (including bribery and other improper payment schemes)

Governance issues

4. Serious improper conduct (including non-disclosure of conflict of interest by officers and directors or demonstration of or perceived impairment of independence by independent directors).
5. Violations of laws and regulations (including those that expose the company or its agents to regulatory or criminal actions. e.g. securities frauds)

Responsibility:

It is the Audit Risk Management Committee’s (“ARMC”) responsibility to ensure that the Company has appropriate procedures for the receipt, retention and treatment of disclosures or complaints about the Company’s accounting, internal accounting controls or auditing matters.

In addition, all concerns or irregularities raised will be treated with confidence and every effort will be made to protect the identity of the complainant and the complainant should not suffer any retaliation for the disclosure or complaint made. On the other hand, complaints should not be made for personal gains and should not be mere expressions of grievances. In view of the protection afforded to an employee raising a bona fide concern, it is preferable that the individual put his name to any disclosure. The identity of the person will be kept confidential, if so requested, so long as is compatible with a proper investigation.
